Every child deserves a break

Cultivating joy at Cottage

Cottage by the Sea programs are thoughtfully designed to offer children the inspiration of new experiences, fun-filled activities and adventures in nature. Some of these opportunities can be daunting at first – like swimming in the ocean for the first time, trying an unfamiliar food or making a new friend – but other experiences are everyday sources of pure joy, which for one visiting child recently was bringing in the Cottage rubbish bins.

This young boy Bodhi, his family and their community have experienced the depths of adversity – from harrowing bushfires to a challenging health diagnosis. But you wouldn't know it from the smiles on the faces of the children, parents and teachers on this Take a Break program. "These sorts of camps make such a difference to preparing students for the bigger world," said the principal of this visiting school.

Scan this QR code to read Bodhi's story

I have said this often over the recent years, but it remains true that we have managed to bring more children through our doors than ever before. This financial year, more than 1,900 children and young people have overcome obstacles, built confidence and created memories for life at Cottage by the Sea.

We can't predict what experience will resonate the most with each child, but we can cater to everyone's individual needs as best as possible to ensure that they have the time of their lives. If all that Bodhi remembers from his time at Cottage is the joy of doing his favourite thing – bringing in the rubbish bins – then Cottage has done its job.

I hope you enjoy reading the stories in this newsletter, which celebrate the impact of our charity in its 135th year of operation. Thank you for helping us offer inspiration, fun and opportunity to more children.

Farewell, Bill!

Bill

After 18 wonderful years working for Cottage by the Sea, Bill Kerr has decided the time has come to pursue new opportunities.

With the Cottage children and our values always front of mind, Bill has held a range of positions across nearly two decades, from working directly with the children in our Programs Team – supporting those experiencing vulnerability – to most recently in the Strategic Partnerships role.

"The rewards of working here have been outstanding, and walking inside the gates each day has been a privilege. The impact and opportunities of Cottage have been profound on me. For over a third of my life, I have had the pleasure of working at and for Cottage – the kids."

– Bill Kerr

"The rewards of working here have been outstanding, and walking inside the gates each day has been a privilege," shares Bill. "The impact and opportunities of Cottage have been profound on me. For over a third of my life, I have had the pleasure of working at and for Cottage – the kids," he continues.

Bill has always had a deep understanding of the responsibility that comes from working and volunteering at Cottage, and the importance of the impact we can all have both on the organisation and visiting children.

Bill extends his gratitude to everyone who has enhanced our children's charity and his time working for it. "To all that have helped make Cottage the place it is and my time here so special, I thank you." We thank him for his life-changing work and wish him all the best with his future endeavours.

Take a Break – the joy of catching a wave

A young boy glides across the surface of the sea, picked up by the wave as he rides it all the way to the shore. Smiling from ear to ear, he looks up at his teacher Selma standing on the beach. “Good boy!” she claps in encouragement to her Grade 5 student from Thomastown West Primary School. He stands up, reaching his arms overhead in triumph of the wave as his boogie-board bounces in the water behind him, attached to his wrist.

This young boy from Afghanistan has had quite the journey for a 12-year-old. His family emigrated to Turkey, where they tragically experienced the harrowing earthquake of 2023. Displaced, having lost everything, they sought asylum in Australia via the Northern Territory. Arriving in Melbourne as a refugee, he and his family are in temporary social housing to help them get back on their feet. “I’m not sure what will happen to them once that’s over,” contemplates Selma. “He’s such a sweet boy.”

A young girl in this same group is standing tentatively at the shore while her friends squeal in delight as they play in the waves. She calls out to one of them, nervously, as she sinks her feet into the sand while the water laps against her wetsuit-clad ankles. “It’s like quicksand,” she says quietly, eyes facing down towards the water.

“Many of these children are not beach people,” explains Selma, reinforcing the adventurous nature of this trip to the sea. For many of these children, going to the beach is a new experience. From the chilly temperature of the water to navigating breaking waves and whitewash, swimming in the sea is a real stretch of their comfort zone.

Despite the discomfort, this 10-year-old girl meanders further into the water with the guidance and support of her friends and Cottage staff. Holding a boogie-board, a Camp Leader directs her to face the shore and guides her to lie down on the board as the wave picks her up. Keeping her head above the water so her hijab remains dry, she experiences the feeling of riding a wave. Yesterday was one of the few occasions she has been in the ocean. Today she is boogie-boarding with a smile on her face.

Being brave enough to try something new – which these children embraced – can transform an experience from something to fear into an activity filled with fun.

REEF – new friendships & exciting adventures

The REEF program is all about meeting new people and building lasting friendships. After all, the "F" in REEF stands for “friendship”.

New REEF participants from different schools in Melton came together for the first time. This marked the beginning of a two-year journey on the REEF program – one that will shape their personal growth and teamwork skills for years to come.

The first Cottage experience can be nerve-racking for some participants – but not for these Reefies! After just a couple of hours, new friendships blossomed, and it felt like everyone had known each other for years. The sense of belonging was instant, and the group settled in quickly to the Cottage experience.

From the beach to Cottage, laughter and excitement could be heard in every corner. It was clear that this group was not only ready to have fun, but they also gelled so well as a team. Whether it was working together to solve challenges or supporting each other through new activities, the spirit of teamwork was alive.

“It was the best time of my life.”

– REEF participant on this program

This first program is just the beginning. Over the next two years, these young people will participate in nine programs, both in Queenscliff and abroad, where they will have the opportunity to develop life skills – resilience, leadership, teamwork and communication – that will help them as they transition from Grade 6 into Year 7.

The REEF program provides these young people with a special opportunity to grow, learn and create connections that will last a lifetime. From the excitement and good energy, it’s clear that they’re all eager to tackle this journey together and make the most of everything it offers. The adventure has only just begun!

Mentor – developing valuable tools for life

The first weekend Mentor program of 2025 focused on helping our participants develop skills that will guide them into future careers and provide them with important tools for life.

Our Year 10 Mentors trained with The Gordon in Geelong in a skill that's valuable to any young person looking for a job in hospitality: making coffee. The team at The Gordon shared their expertise with our Mentors on how to brew the perfect cup of coffee. By the end of the day, each Mentor received a certificate of completion in the Barista Course – a great addition to their résumés.

It was heart-warming to hear a story from the parent of one of our Mentors, Edward*. His father shared how passionate Edward had become about making coffee. The first thing Edward did when he arrived home after the program was brew mochaccinos for the family. Edward then woke up early the next morning and made coffee for his family before school – a surprising delight for his family.

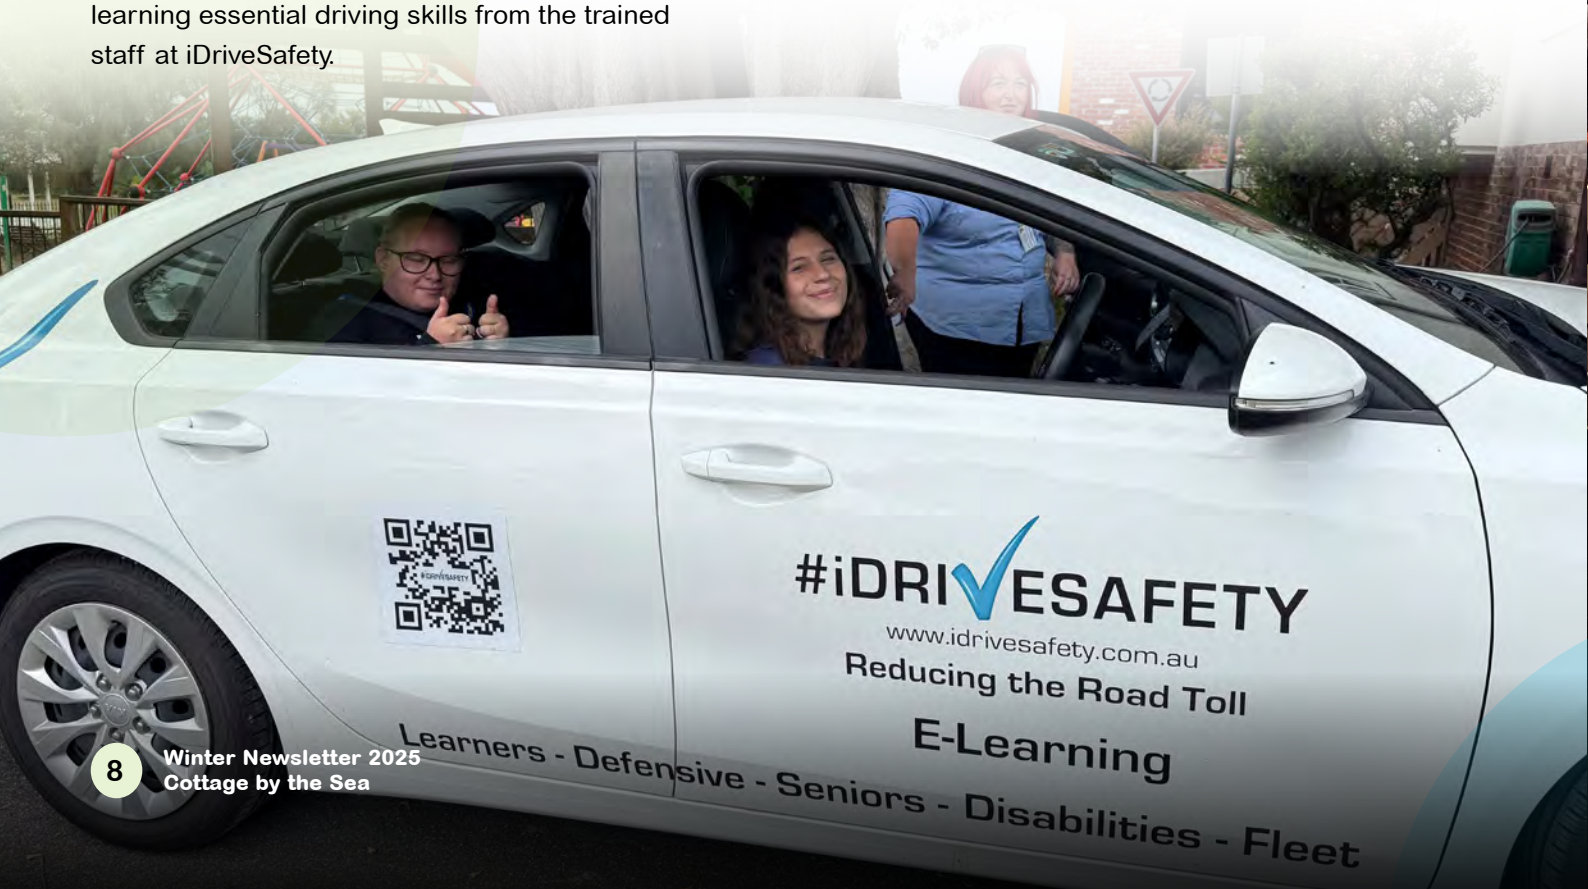

Our Mentors in Years 11 and 12 took part in a driving safety course with iDriveSafety, a not-for-profit organisation that offers specially designed driving programs to help neuro-diverse young adults obtain a Learner Permit and driving skills. The participants spent time out on the streets of Queenscliff, learning essential driving skills from the trained staff at iDriveSafety.

After spending time with Year 11 Mentor Jamie* and hearing about the challenges she has faced when going for her Ls, Jamie was donated a fully funded driving course. This opportunity will help her gain her Learner Permit and build confidence in vital skills.

Thank you so much to the teams at iDriveSafety and The Gordon for supporting our Mentors. These life-changing opportunities to train and upskill have offered our participants valuable tools for life.

Thread Together

“These are made out of old coke bottles!” exclaims a young boy to his friend as he holds up a pair of new shorts, eyes wide with curiosity. Take a Break participants are enjoying a visit from Thread Together – a social enterprise that partners with leading fashion brands to rescue new garments for people free of charge. Driving social and environmental change, the organisation collaborates with registered charities to provide new clothing to individuals experiencing crisis, homelessness, domestic violence, natural disasters and other hardships.

These children's communities of Pomonal, Buangor and Maroona, located around the Grampians, were severely impacted by the bushfires of 2024. In Pomonal alone, 46 homes were destroyed, and countless residents lost everything. This initiative was a chance to provide these children with something truly special as they continue to rebuild their lives.

Through the generous support of Thread Together, each child had the opportunity to "shop" through boxes of brand-new clothes. They were amazed to receive these items for free, with one child shouting, "I can’t believe it’s brand new and it's free!" It was a moment of joy and excitement for all. From patterned shirts to cool hats, comfy shorts and colourful pencil cases, the children were delighted with their new outfits, grinning from ear to ear as they revealed their treasures to each other.

The fun didn’t stop there. After everyone had picked out their new outfits, the children decided to put on their own fashion show. With music playing in the background, they strutted their stuff down the stairs, out the front door, around the Thread Together van and back inside. Every Cottage staff member and volunteer gathered outside, cheering them on as they did their lap of honour. The smiles on the children’s faces were unforgettable. “The fashion show after the shop was our highlight of the week!” shares Sean, Programs Coordinator at Cottage by the Sea.

The philosophy underpinning Thread Together is a circular fashion solution, spreading hope to those who need it. Visiting children this week didn’t just receive a new outfit – they also went home with a newfound sense of joy that will permeate their entire lives. It was a thoughtful gesture that brought a little extra light into their lives after such a devastating natural disaster. We’re so grateful for this new partnership that gives back to our community in such a meaningful way.

Cops N Kids

The blue and red flashes of a police car racing past can spark fear in any one of us – but not for children on a Cops N Kids camp. A Ballarat initiative has spent the past three decades showing children affected by life-threatening illnesses that lights and sirens can also be a source of joy.

When a child plays at the beach, rides with the water police or flies in a helicopter, they momentarily forget the worries surrounding why they're attending a Cops N Kids Program. It's hard for the police officers to forget, though. These frontline workers are connected to these children through distressing ordeals – encountering these families due to a seriously ill loved one at home, losing a parent or sibling to illness such as cancer or other tragic circumstances.

Offering critically ill children a weekend of fun experiences while their families receive some respite is at the heart of this police-run not-for-profit. Volunteer police officers, their families and other community members join forces to run the camps, which rely on the generosity of the Ballarat and surrounding communities through donations of goods, services and funds.

Making children smile

Thirty years ago, John Moloney had an idea that combined his dedicated career as a Ballarat Sergeant with giving back to the children and families in his community who needed it most. Based at the Ballarat Police Station, he co-founded the Cops N Kids Program with former Senior Constable Larry Gilmore and Larry's late wife Teena after they saw first-hand the challenges that arise from being dealt some of life's hardest cards.

"Cops N Kids was founded in 1995 to support children affected by cancer. The objective of the organisation is to provide kids with fun experiences in a friendly, safe and welcoming environment, creating memories to last a lifetime, whilst allowing families of these seriously ill children some respite from their everyday anxieties and caring responsibilities," explains John. Even though John retired from the police force in 2011, he still works at night from the Ballarat Police Station as Cops N Kids' Treasurer.

A memorable weekend

There are two Cops N Kids camps each year – the first is in February and the second is in November. They are both fully funded by donations but operate differently. The location and activities within each camp have varied and evolved over the years, but the consistent aim has been to offer children a fun weekend free of any worries from home.

“Every child's favourite activity is always being strapped into a police car and driving through town with the lights and sirens on! The smiles on their little faces are truly heartwarming,” shares journalist Hayley Elg, who has volunteered with Cops N Kids for the past seven years.

Hayley sheds light on the February camp: “Our February camp is for Ballarat children who have come into contact with police through traumatic circumstances. Some of these children also have parents who are getting treatment for cancer, or have had it themselves. We host this camp in Queenscliff and have about 25 children each year. Some of their circumstances are absolutely heartbreaking, but they are always so excited for the annual camp and to spend the weekend with their Cops N Kids family.”

For the first time ever, the February camp took place at Cottage by the Sea. From enjoying fish and chips at the Queenscliff Foreshore to walking along Cottage Beach as the sun went down, the children immersed in the beauty of nature for a special weekend by the sea. These activities were complemented by adventures with the water police at the Queenscliff Marina, plus lunch and entertainment with Geelong Helicopters.

"Cops N Kids 2025 was better than ever, filled with plenty of fun activities, smiles and laughter. We loved our time at Cottage by the Sea," shares Hayley. “The kids had an absolute ball. The whole weekend was just lovely, but the police boat was fantastic on Sunday … the boat slipped up beside a big cargo ship, so the kids had a great view of that,” adds John with a chuckle.

The ocean was a healing balm for everyone. “We were sitting upstairs on Saturday night watching a movie and could see the ships going out in the water – it was fantastic. The kids and the carers all thought it was really good,” continues John.

Reframing lights and sirens

Meg Lock from Cottage by the Sea's facilities and maintenance team has had a long history with Cops N Kids, having known John for more than 15 years. Meg's long-lasting connection with the organisation is evident as her face lights up: "For some of these people to take the time out of their own jobs to do what they do with the children – give them the experience – it's just awesome. We're lucky to have people like that."

The importance of Cops N Kids is crystal clear to Meg: "It's to let kids know that lights and sirens aren't just here for bad news. A lot of the volunteer police officers, including John, drive their police cars to camp to give the children that positive experience of blazing sirens and flashing lights. The joy on the kids' faces is priceless."

Just like at Cottage by the Sea, fun is a key feature on the Cops N Kids Program. "That's what life's about. We can't change what's in these people's lives, but what we can do is make sure that the time they have is brilliant," shares John.

"We can't change what's in these people's lives, but what we can do is make sure that the time they have is brilliant."

– Cops N Kids co-founder John Moloney

For these children, lights and sirens now spark a memory fuelled with excitement. Cops N Kids illustrates that, with the support of a heartfelt community, the darkness of tragic circumstances in life can be transformed into something joyful and memorable for the resilient children and their families who need it.

Fundraising & events

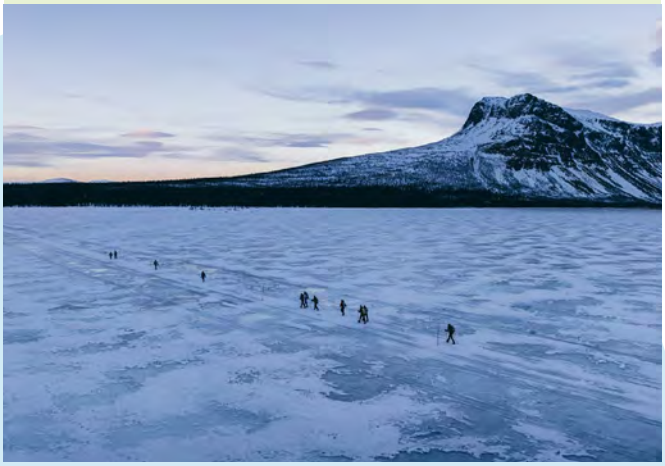

Adam preparing for his Arctic ultramarathon; image credit Ivan Kemp

Braving the Arctic cold for a cause

Back in February, traversing through some of the toughest conditions imaginable in the Arctic Circle, our CEO Adam Wake conquered a five-day 230-kilometre ultramarathon! He powered through icy lakes, fierce winds and unforgiving terrain to raise funds for our REEF snow program at Mount Buller.

"At Cottage, we work in a sector where we frequently ask children and young people to step outside of their comfort zones – how can we ask them if we are not prepared to ourselves?" shares Adam. Thank you to everyone who donated to the fundraiser. Your support will help Cottage by the Sea give more young people the opportunities they need to thrive.

Skiing the length of Norway

Skiing 3,000 kilometres from the bottom of Norway to the top is no easy feat. Queensland explorer Kaelan Lockhart is on a mission to break an Australian record while raising funds for our children's charity.

Kaelan began his journey in February to ski the entire length of Norway (Norge på langs) – aiming to be the first Australian to complete this challenge. The explorer's undertaking is also a fundraiser for Cottage by the Sea so that more children can experience the joy of adventures in nature.

Kaelan Lockhart

Nature has been a key feature throughout Kaelan's life and is at the heart of this fundraising initiative. "Hearing about the great work done by Cottage by the Sea reminded me of how fortunate I was to grow up in a privileged environment full of adventure. In particular, the ocean has been such an important part of my life – from the communities I joined through surf lifesaving and stand-up paddling to the peace and healing that it has always offered me," shares Kaelan.

From skiing under the incredible Northern Lights to meeting friendly locals along the way, it's been an amazing adventure for Kaelan. At the time of writing, he is almost halfway through his cross-country ski, enjoying blue skies and plenty of snow!

We thank Kaelan for his incredible efforts and everyone who has spread the word, assisted him on the adventure or donated to his fundraiser.

Layla's lemonade stand

When the community gives you lemons, the natural choice for local supporter Layla was to run a lemonade stand to raise funds for Cottage. After seeing her grandfather – fifth-generation Queenscliff local Darren Allbutt – create an exhibition fundraiser for our children's charity last year, Layla was inspired and compelled to raise funds for Cottage too.

"Every child deserves to go to the beach," Layla said to her grandfather as the explanation for her lemonade stand, which raised $850! Layla visited Cottage with her mum Tegan to hand over the funds to our CEO Adam, along with an amazing cheque that Adam said is "the best I've ever seen". Thank you, Layla and the Allbutt family, for your enduring support of our children's charity!

Giving Day

Thanks to the generosity of our community and matching donors, our annual Giving Day raised more than $345,000 – a record-breaking amount! From 9am–9pm, matching donors doubled every dollar donated to the charity – with more than 275 donors. All the funds raised on Giving Day will go directly to our programs.

"Just donated – my daughter went there twice, and they were fantastic. She got over so many fears with the patience and encouragement of your wonderful staff."
– Giving Day donor

"Thank you to everyone who contributed to Giving Day's success – whether it was a matching donor, donating to the fundraiser, promoting the event or volunteering on the day. As a non-government funded children's charity in its 135th year of operation, every dollar truly counts," shares our CEO Adam.

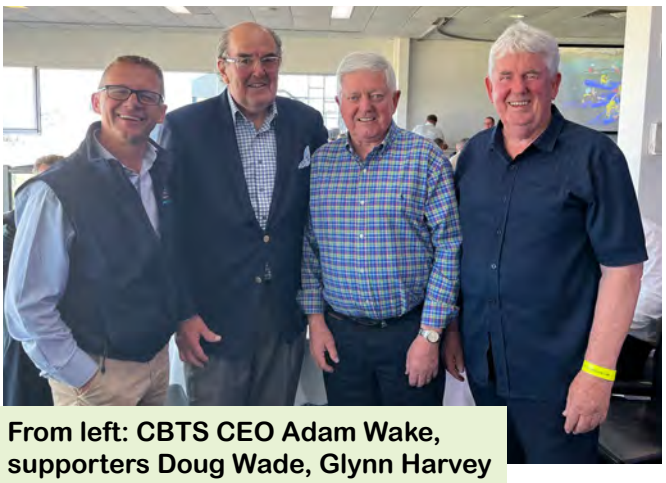

Giving Day 2025 matching donors included the APCO Foundation, Bulls & Bears Golf Group, Ducas-Paul Foundation, Geelong Connected Communities, Millbrook Asset Management, Millbrook Funds and Shine On Foundation, plus anonymous philanthropic foundations.

Branch events

Bellarine Branch

In April, the Bellarine Branch hosted a Talk and Tea event at Cottage by the Sea. Our CEO Adam was interviewed by Cottage Ambassador Ian Cover OAM about his Arctic ultramarathon fundraiser, while guests enjoyed a delicious spread of afternoon tea delights. Thank you to everyone who helped organise this wonderful event and for showing their support.

Geelong Branch

The new year began amid a flurry of flour and hundreds of scones as our Geelong Branch organised Devonshire Tea at Cottage's Annual Fair. Their tireless results and the many supporters who enjoyed Devonshire Tea with a view resulted in their best-ever fundraising result!

The Branch members caught up for lunch in Geelong in February to mark the beginning of their "business year", where they discussed the purpose of the group, their program of events for the year, how to promote the events and strategies to grow their membership and supporter base.

In March, the Geelong Branch held a Music Quiz Afternoon at the Waurn Ponds Community Church. It was an enjoyable afternoon of music and trivia, accompanied by a tasty afternoon tea. Thank you to everyone who helped organise and support the event, and to those who came along.

Highton Ceres Branch

In March, the Highton Ceres Branch held a delightful afternoon tea in Highton to raise funds for our children's charity. Guest speakers from Bunnings Garden Centre shared insights on all-things green between a raffle and delicious fare. Thank you to everyone who attended and/or supported it.

Queenscliff Branch

Shortly after this newsletter went to print, the Queenscliff Branch hosted a mindful art session at Cottage by the Sea where guests unleashed their creativity followed by a wonderful morning tea.
